

ADULT EDUCATION SERIES:

Students With Special Needs

The Waldorf Approach

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28 • 7–9 PM

GRADE SCHOOL • HUCKLEBERRY HALL

All children need to play, to be exposed to nature, to be a child. Special needs require additional care, such as therapeutic movement and sensory integration, but we are in danger of providing too many therapies and not enough of the basics. Come learn more about the Waldorf approach to helping the child with special needs.

Johanna Steegmans was born, raised, and trained as a pediatrician in Germany. She came to Seattle in 1989, and completed her training in Naturopathic Medicine at John Bastyr University. Johanna was on the founding faculty of Sound Circle Center, teaching Early Childhood courses and the Foundation Year. Now, besides co-directing the Foundation Year at Sound Circle Center, Johanna travels and teaches here and abroad and works out of a private practice in Seattle.

Adults only. Open to the public.
