

WALDORF ALUMNI RESEARCH

A Quarter Century of Waldorf Graduates

A new survey of Waldorf alumni conducted by the Research Institute for Waldorf Education (RIWE) paints a current picture of their college and post-college lives and compares them to graduates from other independent high schools. Douglas Gerwin, RIWE's Executive Director, highlights key findings to be published in advance of "Waldorf100," a year-long international celebration of a century of Waldorf education around the world.

MONDAY, JAN 14 • 7 – 8:30 PM

Seattle Waldorf High School • 7777 62nd Ave NE • Seattle, WA

There is no one more qualified than Douglas Gerwin, Ph.D. to answer questions about the significant developmental markers of adolescence. A Waldorf graduate and the Director of the Waldorf High School Teacher Education Program at the Center for Anthroposophy in New England, Douglas brings more than 60 years of experience in Waldorf education. He speaks with candor and humor from the perspective of student, parent, author, and life-long educator.