COMMUNITY CONVERSATION

Cracking the Code
The Systems of Racial Inequity

Dr. Pamela Taylor will lead a conversation about how together we can work toward healing the pervasive social problems caused by racism. The evening will feature the documentary, Cracking The Code, along with time for group discussion to take a deeper look at social dynamics. Together, we will create a dialogue where we can rekindle our connection to one another and discover ways to create a world that works for everyone.

TUESDAY, OCT 24 • 7:00 PM
Seattle Waldorf High School • 7777 62nd Ave NE • Seattle, WA

PAMELA TAYLOR, Ph.D., is an associate professor in the Leadership and Professional Studies department at Seattle University (SU). She holds Bachelor’s and Master’s Degrees in Social Work and a Master of Arts and Ph.D., both in Education with specializations in Multicultural Education and Curriculum and Instruction. Her organization The Circle Works provides social justice-based training, consultation, and coaching for individuals, educational institutions, community groups, nonprofit and governmental agencies, faith-based communities, and more.